

As an original co-sponsor of the H.R. 4411, the Unlawful Internet Gambling Enforcement Act of 2000, I am working in Congress to enact this important legislation. It will help to protect kids and other Americans from the dangers of online gambling. H.R. 4411 would block people from using credit cards, electronic fund transfers or other wire transfers for illegal online gambling operations. Businesses or people that enable illegal Internet gambling would be held accountable. Illegal Internet gambling operations largely prey on children and families going into debt. This bill will enable the federal government to do its part to reduce this threat to kids and family finances.
